WHO

For the many children in Georgia with learning differences – more than 182,000 reported in Atlanta metro schools alone – dealing with daily schoolwork can be discouraging. Kids Enabled™ formed to address all kinds of issues of children who fall within the broad spectrum of learning differences.

A “learning difference” is defined as any neurological disorder that impedes learning and can include a speech impediment, dyslexia, dysgraphia, ADHD, auditory processing, language processing, vision processing, autism and Asperger’s syndrome, as well as other related disorders. Kids Enabled™ seeks not to label children with particular diagnoses, but seeks to provide information that will address symptoms that affect learning.

WHY

Kids Enabled™ is a 501 (c)(3) non-profit that strives to create an informed community where all children with learning differences have the resources to reach their full potential and lead fulfilling and independent lives. The organization relies on local support to help families and children who have learning differences across Atlanta and other parts of Georgia.

Kids Enabled™ offers guiding information, support and encouragement to parents and support networks to navigate the complicated journey from awareness to success, thus enabling children with learning differences to reach their full potential. Kids Enabled™ provides information in its award-winning publication and website, networking and educational seminars, resource fairs and other events. They strive to erase labeling stigmas, encourage early interventions, champion and celebrate success stories and give hope to struggling families. Kids Enabled™ provides a clearinghouse of information about ways to address learning differences through a broad spectrum of resources that impact children with learning differences.
